The Parenting and Family Support Centre is at The University of Queensland, St Lucia on Level 2 of the Social Sciences Building (Building 24).

Parking closest to the Parenting and Family Support Centre is located either in the multi-level carpark (Buildings 98A or 98B) on Sir Fred Schonell Drive, next to the swimming pool on Union Road, or along the river on MacGregor Drive.

Parking fines are issued between the hours of 7:00am to 9:00pm Monday to Friday. Parking is free on the weekends only.

The university is very busy during semester time, so please allow yourself extra time (at least 20 mins) to find parking and make your way to the centre.

Once you have parked, there are two ways you can access the Parenting and Family Support Centre. Firstly, head down Blair Drive and turn down the street opposite the tennis courts (opposite Building 28 on the map) until you reach the McElwain Psychology Building (24A). Walk up the stairs, and then turn diagonally (to the right) and walk across the courtyard. Access the Centre via the double glass doors. If you require pram or wheelchair access, take the elevator, located in the foyer of the McElwain Building, to the second floor. Once you exit the lift, proceed straight ahead (down the corridor) and turn left at the end and continue through the wooden door and continue around the corner until you reach the door to the clinic reception area.

Alternatively, you can access the Centre via Campbell Road. Walk into the Social Sciences Building (Building 24) and take either the stairs or the elevator to Level 2. Level two is the lowest level of this building. When you exit the lift or reach the bottom of the stairs turn right and head down the corridor through the wooden doors until you reach the reception area located to your right.
